NUTRITION FROM NATURE

FOODSTATE MATRIX™

THE SPORTRON DIFFERENCE

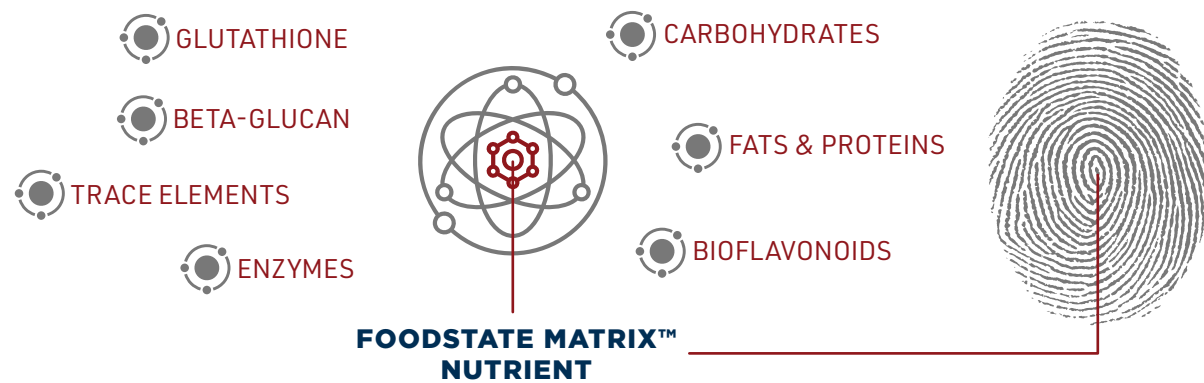

FOODSTATE MATRIX™

The Sportron® FOODSTATE MATRIX™ technology is a unique proprietary blend internationally developed for Sportron, with extensive scientific support.

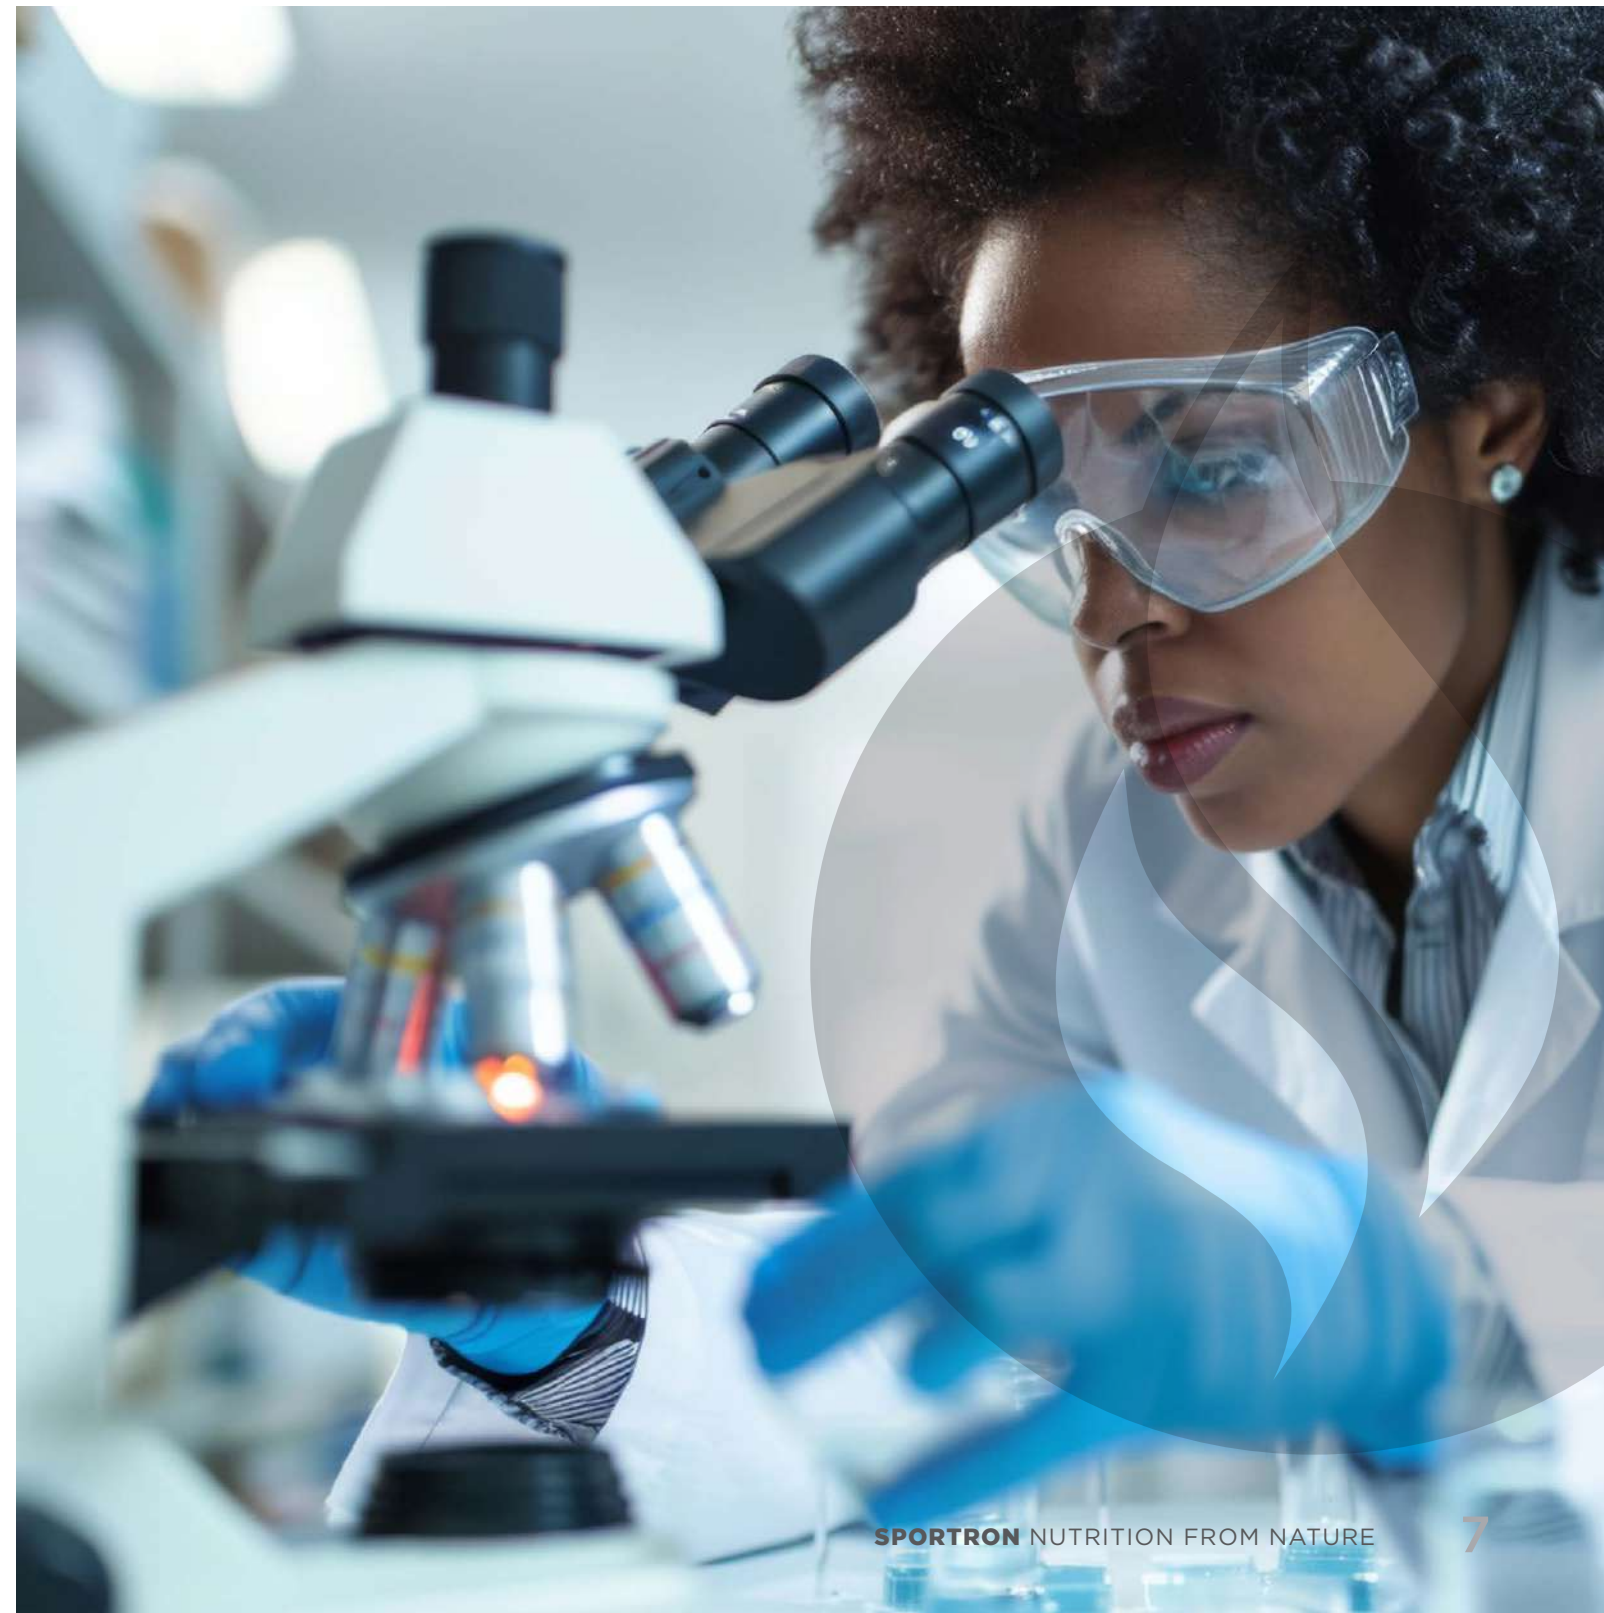

FOODSTATE MATRIX™

Every natural vitamin and mineral has a unique shell, called a matrix, that is made up of various substances and acts like a fingerprint for your body to recognise the nutrients, such as Vit C from lemons.

Sportron uses patented nanotechnology, originally developed by NASA in the 1990s, to create matrix-enhanced formulas. NASA developed this technology to help astronauts deal with the excessive use of food additives and isolated supplements needed for long space missions.

When you take Sportron products, they dissolve in your stomach within minutes. During this process, natural matrices form around the chelated nutrients. These matrices trigger hundreds of nano-reactions, transforming the nutrients into a natural form that your body can absorb and process as if they came directly from food.

It is recommended that individuals incorporate Overall Wellness products into their daily routine to achieve optimal wellbeing, and consider adding targeted supplements as needed to address specific health requirements.

Food's nutritional value may be impacted by a number of events that occur during the growing, harvesting, storing, and cooking processes. The biggest loss of nutrients occurs during processes that expose food to high temperatures, light levels, or oxygen. Many of us are unable to consistently eat healthy, due to our hectic and stressful lifestyles.

As a result, taking a multivitamin daily can have a significant impact on your overall wellbeing.

Ultragarde provides the equivalent nutritional value of vitamins and minerals that we tend to consume daily, such as:

- Calcium & Magnesium, equivalent to 6 glasses of milk a day.
- B-Complex vitamins, equivalent to 5 portions of fruit or vegetables a day.
- Iron, equivalent to 6 eggs a day.

OMEGATONE® MATRIX

Omega-3 fatty acids are “healthy fats”, that include DHA and EPA (found in seafood) and ALA (found in plants). Some foods, that can help you add Omega-3s to your diet, include fatty fish (like Salmon and Mackerel), Flaxseed and Chia seeds. If you do not consume these weekly, then you may become deficient in Omega-3, as your body cannot produce these oils. Omega-3 is therefore referred to as an essential oil. The heart, lungs, blood vessels and immune system all depend on Omega-3 fatty acids for healthy cell structure, energy and proper operation. Omega-3 is a polyunsaturated fatty acid that is beneficial to general health & vitality.

With Vitamin D and Omega-3 oils.

BOOSTS THE IMMUNE SYSTEM

Omega-3 fatty acids not only help the heart, brain, and eyes, but they also improve the activity of immunological cells, which helps maintain a healthy immune system and have anti-cancer properties.

BOOSTS HEART HEALTH

Omega-3 fatty acids, especially EPA and DHA, lower blood triglycerides, a form of fat linked to a higher risk of heart disease. By lowering blood vessel inflammation and enhancing arterial function, they assist in lowering blood pressure. They also contribute to the prevention of blood clots, which reduces the risk of heart disease overall.

BOOSTS BRAIN ACTIVITY

Omega-3 is a vital part of the brain's cell membrane structures. DHA is especially in charge of memory and cognitive processes. Omega-3 dietary intake may help boost cognitive performance and reduce the risk of neurodegenerative diseases and cognitive decline.

STRONG ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES & BOOST JOINT HEALTH

Numerous illnesses, such as arthritis and heart disease, are associated with chronic inflammation. The anti-inflammatory qualities of Omega-3 fatty acids, particularly EPA, make them helpful in the treatment of autoimmune diseases and joint inflammation. DHA and EPA aid serotonin, a nerve messenger which can help balance your mood. The anti-inflammatory effects of these Omega-3 fats on nerve cells may reduce the risk of depression.

BOOSTS EYE HEALTH

Omega-3 fatty acids will assist your eye health by preventing dry and inflamed eyes. It can prevent or slow down the rate of age-related macular degeneration (AMD) and glaucoma.

ENHANCES SLEEP QUALITY

Numerous illnesses, such as melancholy, diabetes, and obesity, are associated with sleep deprivation. Omega-3 fatty acids may help improve the length and quality of sleep. It has been discovered that Omega-3 contributes to the synthesis of melatonin, a hormone that is essential for controlling sleep.

BOOSTS SKIN HEALTH

For healthy skin, Omega-3 fatty acids are vital nutrients. They aid in preventing dehydration and controlling the skin's oil production. These functions regulate inflammatory skin disorders like eczema and reduce the risk of breakouts and premature aging.

CAPTURING THE GOODNESS
FROM NATURE

Despite advancements in modern medicine, herbal and traditional medicine remains the primary source of healthcare for approximately 75% of the world's population, particularly in underdeveloped and developing countries. The cultural acceptability, compatibility with the human body, and minimal side effects of herbal remedies contribute to their widespread adoption. Notably, medicinal plants provide around 80% of the raw materials used in formal medicine, underscoring their efficacy. Recent research has highlighted the potential of certain bioactive compounds in preventing and treating diseases, including cancer. In recognition of the importance of traditional herbal medicine, the World Health Organisation (WHO) established the Global Traditional Medicine Centre (GTMC) in 2022 to facilitate research, knowledge exchange, and collaboration between traditional and modern medicine. Building on this momentum, the Sportron Group has developed an innovative herbal range, Healthgarde, which harnesses the benefits of herbal medicine to promote overall well-being.

WEIGHT MANAGEMENT

TIME TO DETOX

You might be surprised to learn that the body doesn't eliminate waste as efficiently as we've been led to believe. While the body is designed to remove toxins, it cannot eliminate everything on its own. Overeating on a regular basis adds to the burden, making it harder for your body to process and eliminate excess waste. This can lead to weight gain over time.

The more you overeat, the more your body stores, as it struggles to eliminate the surplus. This overload can leave your body overburdened and functioning less efficiently.

A weight-loss cleanse can help reduce this burden by assisting your body in eliminating built-up waste. As this waste is removed, your body becomes less stressed, allowing it to perform its essential functions more effectively, such as metabolising bad fats. This process can ultimately lead to gradual and sustainable weight loss.

APPLE CIDER VINEGAR

Apple Cider Vinegar can boost weight loss by increasing your metabolism and helping you feel full, promote healthy digestion and help maintain balanced blood sugar levels. Apple Cider Vinegar is naturally acidic, and for people with low stomach acidity, it may help raise stomach acid levels to aid digestion. This could prevent gas and bloating, which a slow digestion can cause. It also has anti-microbial properties, meaning it may help kill bacteria in the stomach or intestines and improve digestive health.

GARCINIA CAMBOGIA

Garcinia Cambogia helps reduce appetite and helps block fat production by inhibiting an enzyme called Citrate Lyase.

GOTU-KOLA

Gotu Kola regulates digestion as it is loaded with Proteins and vitamin C. It can also promote mucous secretions in the intestines which can help combat the increased acidity in severe gastric ulcers and effectively heal stomach aches. It helps to improve circulation and regulate blood sugar levels, while boosting energy.

GREEN TEA

Green Tea contains caffeine and a type of flavonoid called Catechin, which is an anti-oxidant. Research suggests that both these compounds can speed up the metabolism.
